Infrastructure

Running your office was never so easy. Our expert knowledge of wiring, cabling, networking, telephone and telecommunications, as well as cloud based solutions can protect and enhance your productivity and investments.

By providing end to end solutions whether they be virtual, cloud-based, remote, or onsite, K Street is there to complete your environment. If our qualified staff is unable to provide the complete solution, we will work with our comprehensive network of vendors to get the job done. You can find your answers here because we understand the complete picture.

IT Support

Supporting your environment means more than just solving technical issues. Our support focuses on developing a relationship of trust; knowing that we are making the right decisions and implementing the right technology to help you grow. We support clients of any size; from small businesses without onsite technology staff up to large organizations with a full IT department. We craft our support or project work to your organization's requirements.

We also perform network assessments and audits. Even though your organization may have excellent staff or support, it's always helpful to have an independent review. We recommend bi-annual reviews of your network environment as a part of your ongoing IT strategy.

Communication

Our full service offering enables remote employees and offices to better communicate by understanding what types of messages should be funneled through which technology to effectively deliver your voice and data.

We will help you make communication decisions and understand what the real world working consequences might be.

Security

We secure your network so you never have to worry about your private business information becoming public knowledge. We'll put a comprehensive security plan in place and recommend the right technology to safeguard your network. Utilizing strategies like defense-in-depth and our own experience understanding the balance between losing productivity and increasing security, K Street deploys security mechanisms that do not impact the way you accomplish your company's mission.

We also offer a Network Security Assessment as a sophisticated, yet affordable, on-site analysis to determine your network's vulnerability to hackers, viruses and other security threats.

Strategy

We assist organizations and departments increase their effectiveness by gathering data about the present state of the organization, diagnosing what is working, and helping clients to develop practical solutions. We go beyond the technology to evaluate how you accomplish your daily, weekly, monthly goals providing comprehensive and workable solutions.

We will assist you in creating an extensible, scalable and reusable Enterprise Information Architecture for your organization based on SharePoint and companion technologies.

We help bridge the gap between these solutions and the daily grind to get the job done.
